

Cross-suite performance and consistency

Tasks are percentile-ranked across models, averaged within suite, then averaged equally across suites. Bars are 95% task-resampling intervals; they do not represent training-seed uncertainty. Lower SD means more consistent relative performance.